Live from Berlin – Conference in Digital Format

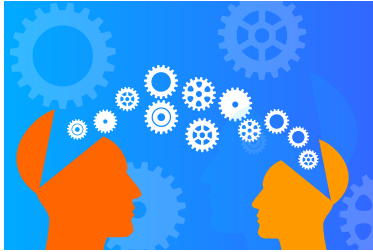

This year's International Supply Chain Conference in digital format generated a great deal of interest both in Germany and around the world. There were more than 1,200 digital access confirmations – for the booked digital passes, the participants who had originally registered for the in-person sessions, the personnel who would otherwise have staffed the exhibitor stands, journalists and the members of the various BVL bodies. The number of participants on the three days of the conference ranged from 363 to 528, with Wednesday recording the highest figure. 610 participants played an extremely active role in the event, regularly logging on for extended periods on multiple days. With participants from a total of 25 countries, the virtual event was far more international than would have been the case at the in-person part of the conference under "corona conditions". You can find some impressions from the event on the BVL website, and the December issue of LOG.Letter International will feature a detailed report on the conference. Moreover, all presentations are now available for replay, the fee is included in the DLK 2020 Live Premium Ticket. Presentations are featured in their original language.
